

Snowball (Cotton Ball) Relay:

Cotton balls can also be your snowballs in these kid holiday party game ideas. Divide the young players into two teams. Each kid get a plastic straw. Then prepare a small box for each team's snowballs. Place a large box full of cotton balls about 8 to 10 feet in front of the young players. On the signal "Go", have the first two kids run to the box of cotton balls and pick up a cotton ball (by drawing air through the straw), and take it back to the team box. When the cotton ball is released into the team box, the next kid goes. If a child drops the cotton ball while on the way returning, he must pick it up with his straw without hands, then continue to the team box. The team finish the job first wins. Another variation is to have the players blow the cotton ball to a specified point and then suck it up and return to the starting line.
